SOURCE LISTINGS

The purpose of the online resources to which we subscribe is to provide you with information from reliable sources. These include articles from periodicals, text from specific reference books, pictures, videos, etc.

When you do a single or cross database search, the result will be retrieved from the many types of resources, titles, included within the chosen databases.

From time to time, you might want to find a specific article, etc. Each database includes a listing of titles/publications they use. Look for the link once you access the database search screen.

If you are interested in information from a specific publication, you may have to search through the alphabetical lists provided in most of the databases.

The following will help you find listings for some of the databases.
